ISBN 9781804691724

The first English-language guide dedicated to Mauritania, one of an ever more exclusive list of countries where the Sahara Desert can be securely and freely explored. Straddling the west coast of Africa for 700km between Western Sahara and Senegal, Mauritania occupies the threshold between North and sub-Saharan Africa, but remains a world apart from either - neither Moroccan nor Senegalese, but with strong influences from both.

Rich in background context, packed with practical information from getting around to cultural etiquette, and exploring the whole country from the capital Nouakchott to remote regions, Bradt's pioneering guidebook to Mauritania is the essential travel companion for an unforgettable journey.

The Asian country of Indonesia is the fourth most populous country on earth. The island of Java is so long that it fills both sides of this map. The national capital, Jakarta, is also on this island, but it is the experience of travelling on the island that leads to the most memories. The island's road network is excellent, and passenger rail service is very good. The island is the site of several volcanoes, and the famous island of Krakatoa is now a national park, just west of Java.

The Malay peninsula stretches from the Thai border to the strait separating the area from Singapore and from Indonesia. To me, this is the most interesting portion of the country, especially Penang, in the north. An excellent inset map of Kuala Lumpur, the capital, is included. The second side focuses on the island of Borneo, specifically on the northern portion of Sarawak, Sabah, and the wealthy little country of Brunei. Inset maps of Kuching, Bandar Seri, and Kota Kinabalu are also included. West half in scale 1:730.000 and the east in 1.100.000.

As Switzerland is ideally suited for exploring by train, we have placed special emphasis on the network of rapid and regular passenger train routes, although motorways and the road network is shown in great detail as well.
